

Here's What Our Future World Might Look Like

Geneva, on May 24 @6pm, will host the first European Singularity University Salon at Flux Laboratory, in Carouge. The event aims to highlight local innovation in our region, keeping a minded connected community.

Prototype2026

The event will get a glimpse on the future with ideas and projects spanning from smart and sustainable cities, implantable medical devices, mixed realities and the ethical challenges we will face with the arrival of smarter robots. We will experience how exponential technologies can address humanity's grand challenges, creating positive global impact through Education, Innovation and Community.

Violinist Fabrizio Von Arx will close the event with an aria by J.S. Bach, followed by a light reception.
